

A Dark Time

Dear all,

I'm writing this with a very heavy heart.

My mother was diagnosed with cancer several days ago.

My brain is quite blank now so I'll keep this short.

For the past few days, I was lagging behind my work here, but I beg for your kind understanding and forgiveness.

My assistants are working hard, but there is only so much they can do with me being the bottleneck here.

Also, the 60th Anniversary Nation Day for China is approaching, so everything here will come to a halt very soon.

I've decided to temporarily stop accepting new orders, from the 22nd September 2009 onwards till 9th October 2009. So please submit before 23:59:59 on 21st if it is urgent.

If your order is ongoing and not complete before 26th September, most likely it will have to wait till 9th October to continue with it.

All international delivery will stop from 27th September till 9th October. So if your order is complete and we've asked for your shipping payment, please do so before 25th September.

Again, I apologize for not providing top-notch service here for these few days.

But PLEASE pray for my mom if you have a minute to spare. Thank you so much!

With kind regards

Charles
